(By Austin Rutledge, Managing Director, Export Edge) Export Edge is launching its new Virtual Classroom programme at a key event on 9 July. This programme is designed to benefit Export Trade, Logistics and International Banking personnel, who are invited to attend this event at 11 Merrion Square, from 6.15 - 8.00 pm.

Traffic rush hour and missed classes will be a thing of the past with this new educational process. Mature students can avail of virtual classroom chr(38) tutorial support, plus short corporate courses and monthly revision classes to achieve one of the highest Global Trade and eBusiness professional qualifications within this sector, which is internationally recognised.

Recent developments in Export Controls (Irish Control of Exports Act 2008), plus Customs and Trade regulations updates, (causing significant implications for the industry), will be discussed. This event is intended to provide a quick information update to the exporting sector, including some invaluable networking.

Key speakers from the Irish Export Association will include CEO, John Whelan who has welcomed this initiative.

Export Edge has over the last 15 years led the development of training and education within the Irish export industry.
