Cheswick "Newbridge" Collection based on the Georgian styles of Irish born architect James Hoban

Filed in ConstructionConsumerMedia, PR, MarketingProperty on March 31, 2010

Based on the Georgian styles of Irish born architect James Hoban, who designed the White House in 1792, our Cheswick "Newbridge" collection reflects the more ornate detailing of this period.

The creative curve of the breakfast bar is a very unique feature and show cases the wood turning skills and craftsmanship of the Cheswick range.

The shape of the room was a real challenge, and the Cheswick hand made solid wood material suited this perfectly. We were able to bend the kitchen around the walls in a concave and convex manner to ensure a great use of storage space, and a unique kitchen design.

With the dining area at one end and the casual living space to the other, this spacious room is where the family spend most of their time now.

Kitchen: Cheswick Ireland's "Newbridge" collection, hand painted in Farrow & Ball "All white."

Worktops: Emperador polished marble with special edge detailing, breakfast bar in solid walnut with edge detail to match marble.

Appliances: Cooking: Rangemaster, Refrigeration: Liebherr, Washing/Cleaning: Miele
